

The cost of servicing the Third World debt is greater than all Third World spending on health or education and nearly two times the amount those countries receive each year in foreign aid. Third World debt grows every year, currently approaching $3 trillion.

Perkins on Democracy Now